Glendale, Ariz. — Glendale Councilmember Gary Sherwood of the Sahuaro District highlights one of Glendale’s community partners, Habitat for Humanity Central Arizona, in his new edition of the TV show “Glendale Today”. Councilmember Sherwood talks with Roger Schwierjohn, President and CEO of the organization, about how the group has been providing affordable housing to families in Glendale for more than 15 years. Schwierjohn discusses Habitat’s history, their mission to help folks who would otherwise not qualify for home loans, volunteers, funding and their partnership with the city.

Viewers also get an inside look at the process prospective homeowners go through, a look at some of the more than 120 homes Habitat has built in Glendale and hear from a new Habitat homeowner who later became a volunteer for the group. Councilmember Sherwood is passionate about Habitat’s mission, attending more than 45 housing events since becoming a Councilmember. He also shares how residents can get involved and volunteer with Habitat.
